ON THE COVER: High-altitude climbers with exterior painting skills used 45 gallons of white and 20 gallons of brown paint to give a fresh look to the dome.

Dear Alumnae and Friends,

Each time I look at the cover photo on this issue of the Columns, I am thankful for all of the individuals who have been careful stewards of our beautiful buildings and grounds. I extend my sincere thanks to our Building Committee, chaired by trustee and alumnae parent Jim Bradley, and our plant and maintenance staff led by Director of Information Technology and School Plant Darren Briner. They have thoughtfully planned the various renovations to our facilities—always with the educational program and the historic character of our building in mind. They also have saved our school countless dollars through their skill and active participation in the renovations.

On a personal note, as a physics teacher I have enjoyed learning more about facilities and technology—not topics typically covered in teacher education and administrative training! I am now intimately familiar with terms such as punch lists, asbestos abatement, re-grouting mortar, and cornices and drainage systems—to say nothing of SMART Boards and bandwidth. On numerous occasions, my physics students have also benefitted when I have used photos from the various projects to illustrate concepts and engineering.

The wonderful facilities and technology at the Academy are certainly an impressive feature for prospective students and families. We are now well into the admissions season for the incoming Class of 2015. Given the strong attendance at our open houses and scholarship/placement exam this year, we anticipate being at full enrollment once again next fall.

A strong factor in the success of the Academy has been thoughtful planning on the part of our Board of Trustees. At their annual retreat last fall, the Board initiated a new long-range planning process that will provide a blueprint for the Academy for the next five to 10 years. Our last long-range plan, Momentum, was published in March 2003 and has been an excellent plan and guide. Various committees of the Board as well as a faculty committee will be contributing to the plan and a Steering Committee chaired by trustee and alumnae parent Craig Wainscott will oversee the process. All aspects of the school will be examined for future needs and trends: Mission and Identity, Curriculum and Program, Facilities and Technology, School Image and Marketing, Alumnae Relations, Development, Finance and Investment.

In late winter or early spring, we will invite the larger HNA community to give input through a survey tool. When you receive notice of this survey, we would greatly appreciate your participation. As alumnae and friends, you have a unique experience of the core values of the Academy. Your thoughts and ideas will assist us as we shape the Academy of the future.

Sincerely,

Liz Eldredge Swift '71

HNA, Online and Ready for its Close-Up

A new admissions video goes live on the Web to capture the excitement and unique spirit of life under the dome.

You have just minutes to describe the essence of Holy Names Academy to a curious stranger. Make that a 13-year-old stranger—the easily distracted kind. Ready?

Easy. Just click the video link on the Holy Names Academy website homepage—or look on YouTube—and let dozens of current and recent HNA students do the talking for you. Eight minutes and hundreds of choice video vignettes later, your adolescent will have a healthy taste of the excitement, opportunity, and unique spirit of an HNA education.

The Academy's new admissions-recruiting video debuted on the Web in October (the exact address is www.holynames-sea.org/Media/HNAVideo.wmv; on YouTube, search for Holy Names Academy). Although targeted foremost at middle-schoolers and their parents contemplating high-school choices, the eight-minute video is a vibrant, fast-paced introduction to the Academy circa 2011 for anyone curious about life under the Dome.

“With the popularity of websites like Facebook and YouTube, people are uploading videos every second of the day,” says Admissions and Marketing Director Michelle Basilio. “The video gives people an opportunity to get to know us, which encourages them to come for a visit or check out an open house—or it’s a chance for an alumna to reconnect with her school.”

The video has no narrator and no written dialogue, only the unrehearsed voices of HNA students and young alums. “We don’t script anything, our students just speak from their hearts and share about their experience and what makes it special,” Basilio says. “What I often find is that our school is very different from what a 7th- or 8th-grade student had originally imagined.”

The video’s producers, Seattle-based Quantum Productions and Stendal Productions, spent hours inside the school over the 2009–2010 academic year, filming students and teachers in actual classroom situations. Additional half-days were devoted to capturing athletic and social events, such as the annual HNA/O’Dea New Family Picnic. The narrative flow is woven from one-on-one interviews, conducted with a wide range of students in the Le Sorelle Music Center’s recording studios.

“For us, being able to work on a school video, interviewing such sharp, interesting

The new video uses a popular technique of “capturing” still photos from daily school activities and sending them to a mobile phone. View the video to see it!

students, is pure joy,” says producer Becky Stendal. “Holy Names Academy is the one place we are allowed to really unleash our creativity, and that makes the process so worthwhile.”

Capturing the essence of a 131-year-old Academy for tech-savvy young women of the 21st century is a tall order. “You really can’t bottle and market the experience at Holy Names Academy,” Basilio says, “but you can give a glimpse of it. And now we’re even working with our videographer on the idea of filming in 3-D for the next version!”

A Legacy of Creative Stewardship: Preserving the Dome

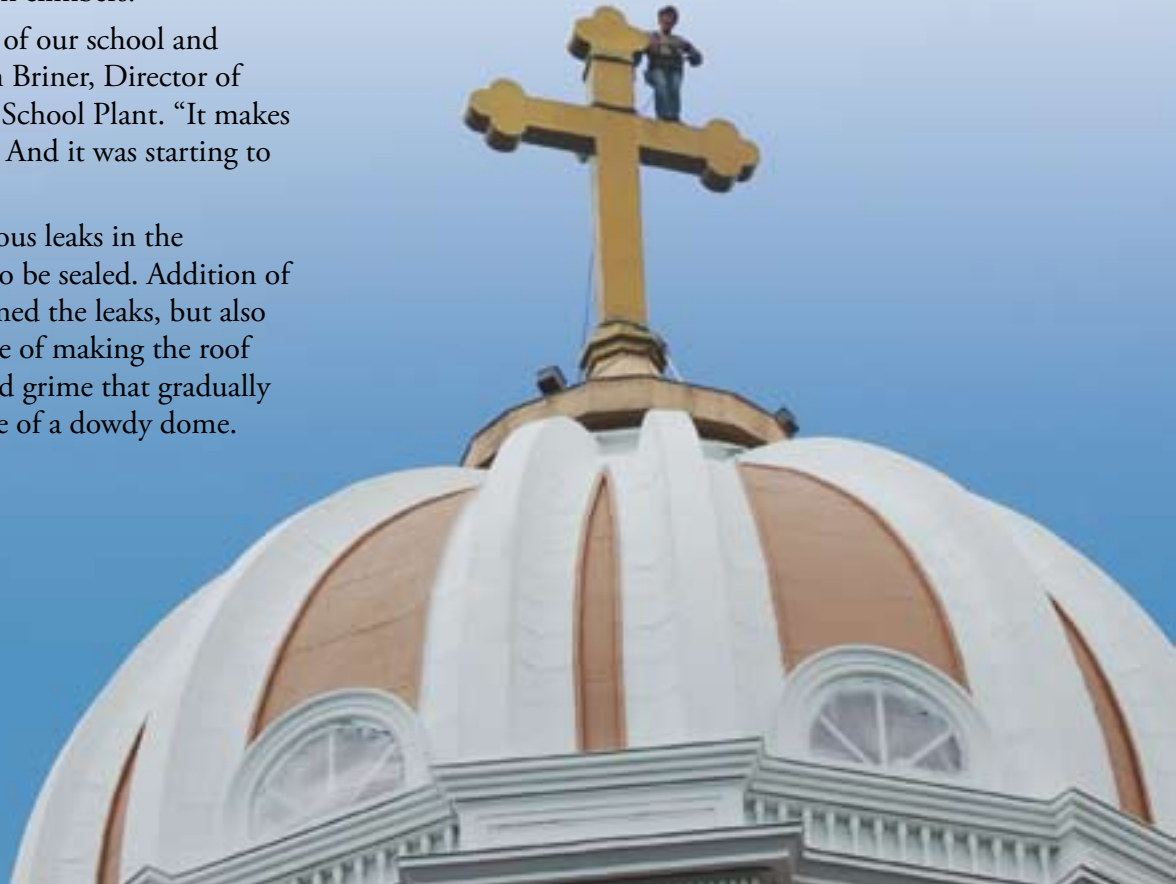

When the job soars 145 feet into the sky, a squeegee on a stick won't suffice.

Cleaning the Academy's towering landmark dome may seem at first glimpse a prosaic task. But when it rose to the top of the school's housekeeping to-do list for summer 2010, the Board of Trustees Building Committee turned to innovative solutions—in keeping with a custom of dedicated, sometimes creative stewardship of the school's historic building. In this case, it was spend more to save more. And hire a bunch of mountain climbers.

"The dome is such a big part of our school and our identity," explains Darren Briner, Director of Information Technology and School Plant. "It makes a huge impression on people. And it was starting to look run down."

About a dozen years ago, serious leaks in the 42-foot-diameter dome had to be sealed. Addition of waterproofing material stemmed the leaks, but also had the unfortunate downside of making the roof sticky—accumulating dirt and grime that gradually contributed to the appearance of a dowdy dome.

"We've tried numerous approaches to cleaning it over the years..."

The Fruits of Stewardship

A checklist of the most recent major projects to keep HNA's historic building thriving as a 21st-century education center:

2007

- SMART Boards installed in all classrooms
- Hardwood floors refinished
- New Business Office spaces built; Auction Office renovated
- Security upgraded (cameras, cardkey entry)

- All electrical services consolidated
- Studio art labs renovated and technology integrated
- Computer lab and classroom hardware and software upgraded

“We’ve tried numerous approaches to cleaning it over the years, but just couldn’t get the results we really wanted,” Briner says. “So this year, the Building Committee made the decision to go ahead and repaint the entire dome. And by changing the material to a new paint that has a dirt-repelling gloss on it, we hope that simply cleaning the dome every year will get a lot better results.”

By using a higher-end gloss paint, the Building Committee hopes to see substantial savings on the cost of maintaining the dome in future years.

Current members of the HNA Building Committee are Jim Bradley, Phil Hasenkamp, Ed Pillitteri, Mark Smedley, and Craig Wainscott, as well as three members of the school staff: Briner, Principal Liz Swift ’71, and Business Manager Dorothy Crean.

The twin commitment to savings while maintaining stewardship of the Academy building similarly inspired the choice of a small, Seattle-based firm of mountain climbers to perform the summer’s dome work.

To erect temporary scaffolding around the dome would cost the school upwards of $50,000. By instead employing CTB Consulting—a Seattle-based firm whose expertise in high-altitude climbing has helped hang banners at Safeco Field and paint TV transmission towers atop Queen Anne Hill—the school solved another maintenance puzzle and provided quite a summer viewing spectacle for its Capitol Hill neighbors (see cover photo).

“It is a core tenet of our school’s mission statement,” says Principal Liz

Swift, “that we are pledged ‘to preserve the lasting values of our tradition while we design the Academy of the future.’ One of the most visible and tangible signs of that commitment is in the innovative work of our Building Committee and the school’s dedicated maintenance staff.”

All Things Under the Dome

How well do you know HNA’s dome?

- From the roof of the building, the dome rises 48 feet; the cross atop the dome ascends another 20 feet. From the top of the cross to ground level is 145 feet.
- The dome was not an addition; it was part of the original plans for the Academy, designed in 1905 by architect Albert Breitung and completed in 1908. The interior of the dome is entirely constructed of fir wood.
- The familiar Christmas lights, as well as the cables and pulleys that support them, remain in place year round. Replacing the cable rigging was part of the summer 2010 dome renovation project.
- The annual tradition of lighting the Christmas lights during the Deck the Dome celebration—an honor for which supporters vie at the annual CHEER! Auction—requires the winning bidders to actually climb into the dome. That’s where the only electrical switch for the lights is found.

2009

- Academic Office software upgraded (PowerSchool online grade system)
- First-floor hallway flooring replaced
- New classroom desks installed
- Reception, Planned Giving, Executive Assistant offices renovated

- Dome exterior repainted with dirt-repellant material
- Lighting system on dome replaced
- Gymnasium roof replaced
- Admissions and Assistant Principals’ offices renovated
- Library hallway flooring replaced

Incoming Ninth Grade Legacy Students

Generations of young women have graduated from Holy Names Academy during its 130-year history. Each fall new students, many of them legacies, pass through the front doors, walk through the halls, climb up and down the stairs, and study in the same classrooms as their relatives before them. Many have sisters who are currently attending or have recently graduated, while others may have great-aunts or great-grandmothers whose class photos may be their only connection.

Since 1908, the Holy Names Academy dome has been a constant in Seattle's ever-changing skyline, but vantage points for capturing it on film are limited. The most common images are shot from the ground up—where tree branches interfere with a clean shot. Limited views of the dome can be captured from windows on the fourth floor of the building; for those with a telephoto lens, the water tower in Volunteer Park offers an eastward-facing skyline view.

After the completion of its power washing and repainting in summer 2010, the landmark was ready for its close-up. Sandy and Fred Cavazos, parents of Raquel Cavazos '12, are owners/operators of Above the Rest Aerial Photography, Inc., and the professionals who undertook the unusual photo shoot. Fred Cavazos arrived at HNA on a sunny, windless summer morning, parked his vehicle in the back lot, and proceeded to unload an 18-foot, non-motorized, helium-filled blimp from inside the covered trailer. The patented, self-leveling blimp system remained tethered to him, allowing maneuverability. Suspended from the blimp was a remote-controlled, high-resolution digital camera; a wireless transmitter enabled Cavazos to compose images from ground level, thus providing extraordinary views of the dome.

Above the Rest Aerial Photography, Inc. has offered a unique perspective to aerial photography in Seattle and the Greater Puget Sound area since 1995. The couple composes low-level aerial photographs that showcase private and commercial real-estate buildings and property. They are able to photograph at low altitudes, from 10 to 500 feet, much lower than can be captured from traditional aircraft. Their customers include commercial and residential real-estate brokers and developers, construction companies, and environmental firms. To find out more about Above the Rest Aerial Photography, visit www.atrphoto.com.

It's a Family Affair

To Cindy Lohman '80, Holy Names Academy is like a beloved family recipe, a culinary treat to be shared and savored—year after year after year—at holidays and festive gatherings.

“You never want to forget it or lose the recipe, and you want to make sure someone is carrying it on in the family and passing it down,” Lohman told a gathering of HNA donors in September. Lohman and daughter Cara Lohman '13, currently a 10th grader at the Academy, together provided a multi-generational keynote to the school's Annual Giving Kick Off celebration at the Sand Point Country Club, hosted by Principal Liz Swift '71 and the HNA Board of Trustees.

The Kick Off event honors current school parents who significantly support the Annual Giving fund, which for 2010-2011 has a goal of $600,000 to provide financial aid for deserving students; enhanced faculty, staff and coaches' salaries; and support for special building or school projects.

“HNA shapes our young women to be the best that they can be, not only for themselves but also for others,” Cindy Lohman said. “I think it's contagious to want to help and inspire other women.”

During her two-decade-plus career as a regional sales manager for Xerox, she said, “The relationships formed at HNA helped me in the business world and personally. I knew how to work well with women and truly wanted to help mentor other women who I knew had the potential for greatness.”

Daughter Cara told the gathering that after just one year walking under the Dome, she, too, has begun to feel the special connection to a tradition of values and inspiration that is the hallmark of an Academy education. Her aunt, Diane Oh Yee '81, also attended HNA along with sister Cindy.

“Sometimes when I am walking on the second floor,” said Cara Lohman, “I can't help but think about how many generations of high school girls before me have passed through those big front doors, walked through the same halls, and sat in the same classrooms.”

“It is interesting and great to know that after 130 years, Holy Names is still going strong and helping smart, talented, and kind young ladies become leaders.”

Becoming a school parent as well as alum, Cindy Lohman said, provides her with new opportunities to participate in a growing family tradition. “I am now an HNA parent and proud of it. I am able to support the school in other ways than before, and that, in my mind, has added a whole new ingredient to this already great recipe.”

Fall Phonathon a Huge Success Due to our Incredible Volunteers!

An enthusiastic group of current parents, alumnae, alumnae parents, trustees, and HNA student ambassadors devoted five evenings in October to phoning over 3,000 HNA alumnae, inviting them to be a part of this year's Annual Giving program. The evening was a huge success and callers raised over $40,000 in donations for our Annual Giving Program! As of today, we are well on our way toward reaching our Annual Giving goal of $600,000 in cash. Participation by all members of the HNA community—including the Board of Trustees, the Alumnae Board, the faculty and staff, and by over 98% of the parents of current students—has made this possible.

Thanks so much to the following volunteers who so generously gave of their time for our 2010 Fall Phonathon: Bill Bakamis, Brieana Beltran '11, Esther Beltran, Mary Beard, Alaina Bever '12, Julia Brueggeman '12, Bill Budigan, Suzie Burke '61, Tanya Button, Doreen Centioli McTigue '61, Mark

2010 HNA Golf Tournament

Close to 100 HNA golf enthusiasts — including alumnae, faculty members, current and alumnae parents, trustees and friends — turned out on September 20 for our fourth annual HNA Community Golf Tournament. Participants had the opportunity to golf at Bear Creek Country Club and to share a great day of golf, camaraderie and fun with our HNA community. The event included golf, lunch, contests and prizes, and an awards banquet — all to benefit the HNA Scholarship Endowment Fund. Thanks to the generosity of the sponsors, raffle donors, and players themselves, the event raised $15,000.

Plans are already under way for our fifth annual tourney which will take place on September 19, 2011, at Bear Creek Country Club.

The Academy extends thanks to the Title Sponsor for the golf tournament, Union Bank, for three consecutive years of generous support.

Endowment Reception Fosters Inspiring Connections

Donors to many of HNA's named family endowments, as well as members of the Leontine Heritage Society, were united with HNA students who currently benefit from their respective endowment's financial support at the eighth annual Endowment Reception, held in the Parlors at the Academy on October 7, 2010. The educations of many of the young women are supported by the same endowment throughout the students' four years at the Academy. By fostering a direct connection between Academy endowment donors and the current generation of students they help underwrite, the reception annually inspires an outpouring of gratitude for the financial aid provided, particularly at a time of exceptional need for many HNA families. And the occasion invariably proves inspiring to donors attending, who learn directly of the future leaders they are helping to shape.

Holiday Lights Glow at Deck the Dome 2010

December 4 found the garland-bedecked halls of HNA ringing with the sounds of the holidays as alumnae, friends, and current and past parents enjoyed an evening of frenzied bidding, sumptuous eating and joyful music at Deck the Dome 2010. Raising funds—so that the Theatre Department can upgrade lighting equipment and software in our beloved auditorium/theater—led to spirited bidding on such items as a chance to unleash your inner “Gleek” with a recording session in the HNA recording studio, a fabulous night at the Sorrento Hotel, a midweek “Ski-cation” at Crystal Mountain, and much, much more!

Marga Pilliteri was this year’s recipient of the Dorothy McBurney Fouty ’50 Volunteer of the Year award, presented during the event. A professional interior designer, Marga has volunteered countless hours to renovation and preservation projects on our historic building over the last decade—from choosing paint colors for classrooms, offices, hallways, and the auditorium to selecting furniture for student desks and guiding the choice and placement of artwork.

“As I reflected on Marga’s years of service,” said Principal Liz Swift ’71 in presenting the honor, “I realized that virtually every room in this building bears some of her creativity and handiwork.”

Charles and Peggy Rogers (Kimberly ’11 and Christina ’07) had dome-lighting privileges as high bidders on the item “Flip the Switch to Light the Dome” at last spring’s CHEER! Auction 2010. While she accompanied the winning couple to our landmark dome, the HNA Archivist, Sister Ann Cornelia Sullivan, SNJM, regaled Charles and Peggy with stories about our school’s history. When they turned on the lights, cheers erupted from the crowd below.

In keeping with tradition, music was an important part of the evening. The HNA String Quartet set the tone, filling the parlors with beautiful melodies as guests arrived. Later, the Vocal Ensemble, the Parent/Daughter Orchestra, and the illustrious Father/Daughter Choir provided further entertainment, putting everyone in the holiday spirit!

It takes many hands to make a success of an event like Deck the Dome. To all who participated, thank you! Through the generosity of our community, the auditorium will have more light and the future of HNA will be even brighter.

The HNA String Quartet accompanied the Vocal Ensemble and the Father/Daughter Choir.

The Goldsmith Heritage

The association of Hugh and Annajean “Skitty” Goldsmith with Holy Names Academy—43 years and counting—began when their first daughter, Jill Goldsmith Routt, enrolled in 1967. Jill ’71 was followed by Dorothy ’78, Nancy ’80, and Janet ’86. Then came the granddaughters: Monica Routt ’96, Alyson Routt ’00, and Dorothy Routt ’03 (Jill’s daughters); Joanna Suelzle ’05 (Nancy’s daughter), and Aubrey Goldsmith ’05 (daughter of Kathleen Schwaegler Goldsmith ’77).

When Hugh and Skitty’s daughter Dorothy died in a tragic accident in 1982, memorial gifts were directed to a future scholarship. Skitty passed away in 2008, followed by Hugh in August 2010. Gifts in their memory have helped augment the Goldsmith Family Endowed Scholarship, which will benefit young women at the Academy in perpetuity. The endowment came full circle in October 2010 when Janet Goldsmith Cleary met the first Goldsmith Scholar at the school’s annual Endowment Reception.

Explains Jill Goldsmith Routt, “Holy Names Academy enables the fulfillment of our family’s dream: to instill the legacy of our

The family gathered to celebrate the 50th wedding anniversary of Hugh and Skitty Goldsmith in September 2000.

Catholic faith and traditions, while equipping our young women with skillsets for life’s future endeavors.”

Hugh and Annajean Goldsmith were valued members of the HNA community, and their heritage, spanning so many years and so many young women, lives on to honor their memories.

CHEER! is Online

Make your reservations and donations and stay up on all the latest CHEER! news at our new auction website at <http://holynames-sea.maestroweb.org>.

Check back throughout the year for item updates and MORE!

Table Captains

Becoming a table captain is an easy and fun way to make your CHEER! experience more meaningful. Each table seats 10 guests, and a table captain fills the seats. You do not have to host (pay for) the table—you are just contacting other HNA families to complete the table. You can fill the table with parents of students in the same class, sports teams, drama or music friends!

CHEER! Sponsorship Opportunities

We extend an opportunity to you to help support Holy Names by becoming a CHEER! Auction sponsor. CHEER! Sponsorship offers a unique advertising opportunity for you or your business. Over 400 people attend the CHEER! auction, in addition to the many current and alumnae Holy Names families who will see your support listed in our catalog, on our website, and in our annual report. All proceeds from our CHEER! Auction go towards scholarship endowment!

HNA Alumnae Board

Dear Alumnae,

We are blessed this year with a wonderfully enthusiastic Alumnae Board! Nine new members were added to the returning core board members—for a total of 28 talented women. Many hands make light work, and we'll make use of everyone with our very full agenda this year: Basketball, Homecoming, a Wine Tasting event, the Puppet Show, the 50th Year/50PLUS Reunion, and the ever-popular Alumnae Luncheon (returning to the Inglewood Country Club on March 5, 2011).

We are looking at a variety of new ideas to connect alumnae with the students at the Academy through community service as well as engaging current seniors in Young Alumnae activities to maintain the strong connection so many graduates have to this community.

I was reading an article about healthy aging recently; one of the key attributes of a long life is involvement in a social network. How lucky we are that we have such an active alumnae association which provides this opportunity to our graduates, both recent and not so recent. Those friendships that were forged in the halls sustain and strengthen us as we go about living.

I am looking forward to a great year of alumnae events!

Notable Women

2011 Distinguished Alumnae Named

Now will I praise these famous women...each in her own time. All these are glorious...each illustrious. –SIRACH 44

The Distinguished Alumnae Selection committee has selected Sister Jean Fallon, MM '47 and Pamela Hyde Gibbons '76 as the honorees for 2011. They will be honored at the annual Alumnae Luncheon in March. (For luncheon details see page 18.) Sister Jean Fallon will be recognized for Achievement in Professional Career and Pamela Gibbons for Outstanding Commitment to Community.

Sister Jean Fallon has devoted her life to peace and justice issues. After graduating from the Academy, she entered the novitiate of the Maryknoll Sisters in New York City. While there, she studied Japanese at the Yale University Institute of Foreign Languages, then moved to Japan where she served various parishes of the Kyoto diocese for 23 years. During a return to the U.S. of several years, she joined the World Awareness Group that fostered better understand of global situations. Returning to Japan, she continued her dedication to peace and justice issues, serving on the Catholic Justice and Peace Committee, the NCC Peace and Nuclear Issues Committee, and several subgroups of the Peace Committee. Sister Jean currently works in the Maryknoll Office for Global Concerns at United Nations headquarters in New York. Last year, she travelled to Palestine with the Christian Peacemaker Team three times, and is involved with Israeli/Palestinian solutions.

In 2006, while running her own fabrication business, Pamela Hyde Gibbons realized that there were not enough skilled workers to meet the growing demand for unique production from the interior design industry. In 2008, she founded Sew Right, Inc., a not-for-profit school for interior-design fabrication and upholstery.

“We are the only organization in the Albuquerque, NM, region to provide much-needed training in this trade,” Pamela says. “We want to offer those facing economic hardship an alternative where hours are flexible, the work is profitable, and opportunities abound as a result of specializing in an almost forgotten art.”

The organization provides much needed sewing skills to underprivileged individuals seeking a profitable and high-demand profession. Students receive training in basic sewing, craft and upholstery techniques, and advanced business courses, providing them with marketable skills and means of financial self-support. To find out more about the program, visit www.sewrightinc.com.

Starting the New Year at HNA—Young Alumnae Reception

Classmates who graduated from HNA in the past five years celebrated “the new year with old friends” at the Young Alumnae Reception early in January. Current teachers and alumnae board members joined in the fun; the class of 2010 had the highest attendance.

 Several young alums who attended the reception are:

Laura Snowden '09 Receives Young Alum Award

Laura Snowden '09 was honored with the 2011 Young Alumna Community Service award for her leadership and service, primarily with Shirts Across America, an organization founded by high-school and college students to assist with the rebuilding of homes in the aftermath of Hurricane Katrina in New Orleans and Mississippi. Laura's work on this project began when she was at HNA and continues at Santa Clara University, where she is currently a sophomore. For the past three years, she has raised funds, travelled to New Orleans to rebuild houses, and encouraged others to do the same. Most recently, she led a group to New Orleans at the end of last year.

In addition to Shirts Across America, Laura has participated in other community service projects at Santa Clara, working with children whose relatives are incarcerated and taking food to outpatients living in the Tenderloin district in San Francisco.

Laura was unable to attend the reception due to her work as a residence-hall community facilitator at Santa Clara. Her mother, Jeanine Snowden, attended in her place. Laura's sister, Karen, is a current HNA student, Class of 2013.

Class of 1951 Update: We will celebrate our 60th reunion at the 50th Year/50PLUS Mass and reception on Saturday, May 14, 2011. Following the festivities at HNA we will meet at the home of Mary Ellen Harkins Ott, just a short walk from the school, for a potluck luncheon.

About 20 classmates meet on the last Thursday of the month for either lunch or dinner. The past three months they have dined at the Tutta Bella restaurants, owned by Mary Kinsella Fugere's son, Joe. Joe was recently honored by President Obama for his small-business success; he is also very generous with his mother's classmates, treating us to complimentary drinks and dessert. Classmates who would like to join us, or for more information about our reunion, can contact Class Rep Pat Cavin, patcavin@comcast.net or (206) 282-6828.

Antonia Brown Lowden '51 is a studio artist who works in multiple media, including weaving, tapestries, painting, and jewelry design. She has been active in the arts scene in Reno, NV, for many years. In fall 2010, Sierra Nevada College presented an exhibit of her sculptural works, entitled Sticks and Stones. In 1999 Antonia began an award-winning program called Artouring; it took convention visitors and local groups to see local artists working in their studios. The program was praised for improving the cultural life of the community. Artouring became a non-profit organization in August 2009, at which time Antonia retired to advisory status and returned to her studio work, new commissions, and exhibitions. Visit www.antonialowdendesign.com for more information about Antonia's work.

Catching Up With...

Father William Treacy— HNA's Chaplain from 1952 to 1964

Some 300 guests joined Father William Treacy at Seattle University in October for a 50th-year celebration of Challenge, an award-winning, 30-minute program that aired weekly on Seattle's KOMO-TV on Sunday evenings from 1960 to 1974. The premise of the ecumenical program was to build a better understanding of different religions. Father Treacy was appointed by Archbishop Thomas Connolly to serve as a panelist, along with Rabbi Raphael Levine and Protestant minister Dr. Martin Goslin. For 14 years, the three discussed religious issues through an interfaith dialogue, always respecting the views of each other.

In 1968, Father Treacy and Rabbi Levine began a multi-faith retreat center near Stanwood, WA; it is now known as Camp Brotherhood. The non-profit retreat center is an inclusive, interfaith organization that offers facilities for educational, spiritual, and experiential programs. Some 130 non-profit groups utilize the facility annually. Over the years, buildings and outdoor facilities were added to the center. They included overnight accommodations, a dining hall, chapel, swimming pool, soccer and football fields. Today, the former dairy farm remains a hobby farm with vegetable gardens and farm animals.

On January 1, 2011 Camp Brotherhood became the Cascadia Center at Camp Brotherhood, forming a partnership with Seattle University School of Theology and Ministry to bring new programs and communities to the center. The event at Seattle University included a call to support this new venture.

Father Treacy, while HNA Chaplain, serves Communion in the chapel.

Now in his 90s, Father Treacy continues to inspire others toward world peace through our interconnectedness, by our actions and faith. He offers this prayer that expresses the foundation of interconnectedness:

Father, the hand of your loving care extends beyond the boundaries of race or nation to the hearts of all who live. May the walls which prejudice raises between us crumble beneath the shadow of your outstretched arm.

For more information about the facility and its programs, visit www.campbrotherhood.com. Father Treacy can be reached at Camp Brotherhood at Cascadia Center, 24880 Brotherhood Road, Mount Vernon, WA 98274.

Lisa Barre '80, pictured center, had the good fortune to win a visit to the HNA dome from her class reunion raffle drawing last summer. The Class of 1980 raised $884 for the Class Reunion Endowment Fund. Joining Lisa on the "trip to the top" were, in front, left to right, her niece, Emily Baron, and Sirena (C.C.) Merfalen '09; and in back, left to right, Mary St. Aubin, Lisa, and Lisa's sister, Theda Barre Baron '81.

Erin Lynch '87 was presented with the World Educator Award by the World Affairs Council in November. Erin, who teaches at Nathan Hale High School in Seattle, was recognized as an outstanding educator for her significant contributions to international understanding in the classroom and the global studies curriculum she has developed and shared with educators throughout Washington state. The World Affairs Council originated in Seattle in 1951, and continues to provide professional and social connections for people who share a passion for world affairs.

Julie Wade '97 received the Colgate University Press book award for her first collection of lyric essays, titled Wishbone: A Memoir in Fractures, completed in 2009 and published in 2010. Since graduation from HNA, Julie completed BA's in English and Psychology from Pacific Lutheran University; an MA in English from Western Washington University, and an MFA in Poetry from University of Pittsburgh.

Her first poetry chapbook, Without, was also released in 2010 from Finishing Line Press as part of the New Women's Voices Chapbook series. Julie's second collection of lyric essays, In Lieu of Flowers, received the Linda Bruckheimer Series in Kentucky Literature in 2009 and will be published by Sarabande Books this year. Julie is a third-year doctoral student and graduate teaching fellow in the Humanities Department at the University of Louisville. She lives with her partner, Angie Griffin, and their two cats, in Louisville, KY.

Kristin Duvall Pavon '99 married Michael Pavon in August 2010 in Seattle. Following the wedding, the couple took a two-week honeymoon through Italy, Greece, and Croatia. They now live in San Diego, CA, and look forward to starting a family soon.

Marie Beasley Simonds '99 writes that her life has been a bit hectic lately since she and her husband, Jeff, had their second child, Jackson Christopher Simonds, on February 15, 2010. He weighed 8 pounds 5 ounces and was 21 inches long. Their other son, Peyton, turned 3 in May. Marie says, "It is wonderful and we are enjoying our time with our new family!"

2000s

Lynne Erickson Shamay '01 and her husband, Eric, were married in May 2010 in Eugene, OR. He is completing his Ph.D in Chemistry at the University of Oregon. Lynne is employed as an Advising Attorney-Decision Writer with the Social Security Administration's Office of Disability Adjudication and Review, also in Eugene. Lynne has lived in Eugene since graduating from law school and passing the Washington bar exam in August 2007.

Ashley Warcola '02 and husband, Lieutenant Junior Grade Patrick Street, were pictured on page 100, under Weddings, in the July 2010 edition of Town & Country magazine. Patrick wore his military dress uniform and Ashley wore Vera Wang. The couple was married in Seattle and now live in Corpus Christi, TX.

Kady Glessner '04 and Lindsay Meyer '07 represented the USA in the 2010 World Rowing Championships in November at Lake Karapiro, New Zealand. Kady set the pace as stroke (seat 8) in the Women's 8+ boat, which took first. Kady graduated from Northeastern University in 2008 and now trains with USRowing in Princeton, NJ. Lindsay, a junior at Stanford University, competed in the single sculls at the World Championships and finished 10th overall. She rows for Stanford and competed for the USA, finishing fifth in the women's quad, at the 2008 Beijing Olympic Games.

Caitlin Goodrich '04 and her fiancé, Adam Guerra, are counting down the days until their wedding in April 2011. They plan “to eat, drink, and be married” in Houston, TX.

Laura Foster '06 graduated cum laude with distinction in Chemical Engineering from the University of Washington in June 2010. She is now working as a Production Engineer for Dow Chemical Company in Midland, MI.

Sonnet Gaertner '06 graduated from Georgetown University in spring 2010 with a degree in International Health after completing a required research internship in Ghana. She is now working on her MA in International Health at Johns Hopkins Bloomberg School of Public Health in Baltimore. Sonnet hopes to complete the rest of her degree through volunteer service; her nomination to the Peace Corps program has been confirmed. She awaits news of her acceptance and deployment to the Peace Corps Master’s International program, which would begin in summer 2011.

Lauren Hall '07, a senior at UCLA, is a member of the women’s swimming and diving team. She recently received the first UCLA/Muscle Milk Student-Athlete of the Week Award of the season and of her career.

Candy Button '09, a sophomore at Princeton University, was a winner of the Shapiro Prize for Academic Excellence, an award given to freshmen and sophomores chosen by the University’s faculty and administrators. She is a candidate for a BS in Engineering and plays on the women’s softball team.

Who’s Studying Abroad

Caroline Read '08 attends Santa Clara University; she returned from studying in Burkina Faso in December 2010.

Bronwyn Rolph '08 is enrolled at Montana State University and is studying at Paul Valery University in Montpellier, France, for the year. She is majoring in French and plans to study French language, history, and culture firsthand.

Madeline Downes '08 attends the University of Oregon and will be studying in London for the Winter 2011 semester.

UPCOMING ALUMNAE EVENTS

Class Reunion Planning Begins Here...

For Classes ending in “1” or “6”—2011 is your reunion year!

Class Reunion Planning meeting

Date & Time: Saturday, January 22, 10 a.m.

Location: HNA

Call a couple of classmates, organize a reunion planning committee, and attend this informal meeting in the parlors at HNA. Find out how the Alumnae Office can assist you with your plans. You will receive a current class list, mailing labels, and basic tips to help you get started. HNA will cover postage for two mailings and provide a complimentary continental breakfast and school tour for your class. It can be your reunion, or part of your reunion weekend!

Let us know if you plan to attend the meeting. Please contact Christie Spielman by e-mail at alumnae@holynames-sea.org or by phone at (206) 720-7804.

Annual Alumnae Luncheon

Date & Time: Saturday, March 5, 11 a.m.

Location: Inglewood Golf Club

Reservations required.

After every reunion, you say it...when you run into a classmate, you say it...AND...when you reflect on your longtime friendships, you think it...Let's go to lunch!

Invitations to this year's Alumnae Luncheon have been mailed to those who have previously attended HNA's annual gathering and to those living in the Greater Seattle/Eastside area. Alumnae living out of the area, or those who did not receive an invitation, are welcome to register online at www.holynames-sea.org, to print out an invitation form to complete and mail, or to contact the Alumnae Office, alumnae@holynames-sea.org or (206) 720-7804.

Sheila Sifferman Marie '68 and Jonete Waters Rehmke '68 are Alumnae Board Luncheon co-chairs. Jill Eagle '02 is coordinating the luncheon raffle.

Alumnae Puppet Show

Date & Time: Sunday, April 10, 1 p.m.

Location: HNA in the Auditorium—Festival Seating

Bring your children, or grandchildren, to see Thistle Theatre's puppet show production of Brother Coyote and Sister Fox. This delightful and hilarious adaptation of a Mexican folktale finds Brother Coyote and Sister Fox competing for Doña Conchita's plump chickens. It includes trickery, schemes and... plenty of chickens!

Thistle Theatre proudly brings together professional puppeteers, hand-crafted puppets, artists, and musicians to create unique puppet theatre productions for the entire family. This production is suitable for children over 3 years; performance time is 45 minutes. Following the performance, the audience will have an opportunity to visit with the puppets and puppeteers. Juice and cookies will also be served.

Admission is $7 per child and $10 per adult; reservations can be made by mail. Download a printable reservation form from the HNA website at www.holynames-sea.org, link to Alumnae. Mail the form and payment by check (payable to HNA Alumnae) or credit card, to HNA Alumnae Puppet Show, 728 21st Ave East, Seattle, WA 98112. Reservations will be checked at the door. Tickets will not be mailed. Questions? Contact Christie Spielman, alumnae@holynames-sea.org or (206) 720-7804.

Annie Wickwire Delucchi '82 is the Alumnae Board Puppet Show chair.
